THE STATE BOARD OF PARDONS AND PAROLES

The State Board of Pardons and Paroles is a part of the executive branch of Georgia's government, authorized to grant paroles, pardons, reprieves, remissions, commutations, and to restore civil and political rights.

Parole is the discretionary decision of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles to release offenders from confinement after serving an appropriate portion of a prison sentence. Offenders on parole remain under state supervision and control according to conditions which, if violated, allow for re-imprisonment.

Parole Board Members are appointed by the Governor to serve seven-year staggered terms and are full time employees. The five members make over 70,000 offender votes annually.

The Director of Parole manages day to day operations for the agency. The Georgia Parole Board consists of two major divisions: Clemency and Field Operations.

CLEMENCY AND PAROLE

Clemency is responsible for the parole decision making process. In Georgia, no inmate is entitled to parole. By law, most are eligible to be considered for parole, usually after serving one-third of their prison sentence.

Eligible inmates are automatically considered for parole.

A decision to grant any type of clemency requires an affirmative vote by a majority of the members of the Parole Board. A favorable parole decision results in the Board establishing a "tentative parole month" (TPM) for the offender. A decision to grant parole may be withdrawn by the Board at any time, for any reason, prior to the scheduled prison release date.

Clemency Action FY 2011

Total offender releases: 13,983 (parole releases, supervised reprieves, conditional transfers, commutations and remissions)

Granted: 230

FIELD OPERATIONS

Field Operations is responsible for the supervision of the parolee. The goal is to carefully transition the offender back into the community and to quickly re-incarcerate those offenders who fail to follow the conditions of parole. There are nearly 24,000 offenders under parole supervision in Georgia annually. The average parole caseload is 85 offenders per parole officer.

Field Operations FY 2011
